THE old world, as contrasted with the new, is always interesting. This volume of the Blockhouse attempts to portray the close association between the two. We have chosen Toledo, Spain, because of the friendship which has always existed between the two cities of the same name. In addition, the staff of the 1933 Blockhouse hopes to perpetuate in this book the pleasant memories associated with the activities of the University of the City of Toledo, and with this dual purpose in mind, we present this book to you.

Mr. Richard W. Brayton
Editor-in-Chief of the Blockhouse
University of Toledo
Toledo, Ohio

Dear Mr. Brayton:

It is always with a feeling of pride that I speak of our University of Toledo, because it is unquestionably one of the foremost municipal Universities in the United States.

Toledo's University has had a healthy growth though a slow one. It has taken over twenty years to put it in the position it now holds, and its progress has been blocked many times by personal, legal, and political opposition that often times was not only discouraging but heart breaking. Fortunately, however, all through the years we have been blessed with faculty leadership and public-spirited trustees, and the continued growing student body that carries on for the University in spite of all opposition. Today we find ourselves entrenched in a beautiful building and a large and picturesque campus, and undoubtedly holding our own in spite of severe financial reverses. That same spirit of loyalty and determination on the part of the student body and the faculty, that unselfish civic spirit on the part of the University trustees, will carry the University of Toledo on to greater heights in the future.

I cannot let this opportunity pass without paying tribute to my valued friend, the late Dr. Henry Doermann, under whose administration our University buildings were erected. He was a noble man and his loss is felt not only in the University and the City, but more so in the field of education. His death was a terrific blow to the University.

and may I at this time commend you on the theme you have chosen for this book. The cities have a common name, and we hope the friendship will continue to grow between us in national cooperation.

Cordially yours,

Addison Q. Thacher

T R A N S

Your letter, received today, requests of me something that the Mayor of Toledo (Spain), could never deny to the students of Toledo (U. S. A.), but which, indeed, I feel I can hardly do in a manner worthy of the occasion.

We had the honor of greeting and welcoming Dr. Doermann at our City Hall, on his recent visit here in the Spring of 1931, soon after the establishment in Spain of the republican and democratic system of government that has given such great glory and power to the institutions of your country and which now is an effective reality in ours.

Your eminent and lamented educator took with him a copy of our ancient coat-of-arms with our

Muy distinguido señor mío:

Vuestra carta de hoy día de la fecha me pide una cosa que el Alcalde de Toledo (España) no puede negar nunca a los alumnos de Toledo (U.S.A.); pero que no sabré hacer, seguramente, con el buen estilo que sería - menester.

Tuvimos el honor de estrechar la mano - del Dr. Doerman en estas Casas Consistoriales, en su no lejana visita del verano del 1.931, recién instaurado en España el régimen republicano y democrático que tanta gloria y fuerza dio a las instituciones de nuestro país, y que ya es una realidad vigorosa - en el nuestro.

El ilustre y malogrado profesor, llevó copias de nuestro viejo escudo y una autorización para usarlo. Usadlo como recuerdo inmortal de una raza que pudo en un tiempo, con el esfuerzo de sus hijos, llenar unas páginas inolvidables de la Historia del Mundo.

Como vuestro Anuario es en homenaje del llorado maestro, seanlo también estas líneas y reciba su selecto y sabio espíritu al respeto de este Alcalde.

Mi saludo más cordial a todos los alumnos de esa Universidad, a su profesorado, y especialmente a su Municipipio, en nombre mío y de todo este Ayuntamiento.

authorization to use it. Use it as an immortal memento of a race which, through the labors of its sons, once filled unforgettable pages in the History of the World.

As your Annual is in homage to your late lamented President, so also may these lines from the Mayor of this City be a tribute to his kind and wise spirit.

My most cordial greetings to all the students of your University and to your faculty; and I trust that you will have the kindness to extend these greetings to your City Officials, in my name and that of our City Administration.

In Memoriam

*There is an angel of eternal rest
With brooding wings, and patience-shadowed eyes
And softly-saddled feet, upon whose breast
A sheaf of crimson poppy-blossoms lies.
With gentle hands she stops the artist's brush:
She takes the youthful student from his books;
And at her bidding, poet's songs must hush:
She calls—they go without a backward look.
The teacher leaves her class; the busy clerk
Must drop his pen. None ever may defy
The angel's summons from his earthly work. . . .
Though we are left to grieve, and question why,
Forgetful of the solace that death brings,
Of rest and peace, beneath her brooding wings.*

DEDICATION

We, the students and faculty of the University of the City of Toledo, dedicate this annual
to the memory of our late beloved president,
Dr. Henry J. Doermann.

General View, Toledo, Spain

Toledo, Spain

AN old tradition says, "When God created the earth He placed it under Toledo, of which Adam was the first king."

Indeed, Toledo is quite ancient. History and legend ascribe its foundation to various sources. Some authors give Hercules as the founder, while others mention Tubal, the grandson of Noah. Others cite the Jews, who exiled by Nebuchadnezzar, settled here and named the city "Toledoth," meaning the "City of Generation." These legends are all confusing. However, we have reason to believe that Toledo was founded before the birth of Christ, as according to some historians it was a stronghold of the Carpetani and possibly a commercial center of the Carthaginians. Livy mentions that Toledo was conquered by the Romans in 193 B. C.

As the writer Galdos says: "The history of Toledo is in itself the history of Spain." It involves the history of Spain under the Visigoths; four centuries of Moorish domination in the center of the Peninsula; the old kingdom of Castile and Leon; the vast monarchy founded by the Catholic kings—Ferdinand and Isabella;—and finally, that great XVI Century, which is truly the Spanish Century.

Toledo absorbed much of the culture of the Arabs and the Jews. It witnessed the best period of the Moorish domination and the great undertakings of the reconquest, first seeing the development and corruption of the empire of the Visigoths. In addition, almost all of the Castilian kings resided in Toledo. Later the masses and nobility jointly controlled, as formerly had the clergy and kings, the politics and religion of Spain.

The marvelous events which have been the basis of traditions and many fabulous tales, passed on from mouth to mouth for a hundred generations, aroused the imagination, giving rise to a special literature of the original and popular type, a forerunner of the Romantic period in which Spanish poets and writers of universal fame excelled.

Toledo was the battle ground of the many political and religious struggles ending in the victory of Spanish Catholicism over Arianism. At first its rulers protected the large Jewish colony, founded extensive silk and woolen industries, and made the city an important center of Arab and Hebrew culture. For a time the Castilians emulated the tolerance of the Moors, but the Jews were expelled in 1492, and later the Arabic language also was forbidden in Toledo, except in church services. In fact, in the Mozarabic Chapel, mass and other offices are still performed daily according to the Arabic liturgy.

Toledo, formerly the capital of Spain and the seat of a university, still is an important educational center, having numerous elementary schools, a military academy and a provincial institute. Here also is located the provincial court of justice, as well as several modern hospitals. Its characteristic industry is the manufacture of swords. "Toledo Blades" have been famous for 2,000 years, having been mentioned in records of the first century before Christ. The damascene work is also very famous and typical of Toledo.

Toledo has a very unusual but picturesque location. The City is built on an elevation of granite, bathed on all sides except the north by the famous river Tagus, the northern part of the city being protected by a double wall. From a distance it has the appearance of a great fortress defended by the river Tagus and walls, dominated by the towers of its cathedral and Alcazar.

A traveller arriving at the impressive railroad station of Toledo only sees a steep cliff at the left and in the foreground some rather poor looking houses, and the cupola of the Hospital of Tavera. However, following the road, the awe-inspiring perspective of the Bridge of Alcantara presents itself. The Alcazar stands out like an eagle's nest at the top of a cliff. Off to the right, the towers of the Bisagra Gate form, with the turrets of an old parochial church, the most picturesque group. Opposite one sees the ruins of the Castle of San Servando, and in the foreground a confused conglomeration of buildings, ancient and modern, built one on top of the other on the slope of the cliff.

... And thus ends this brief story of ancient Toledo, which today has approximately 26,500 inhabitants. The account of this wondrous city, filled with relics of the past, arouses a curious desire to penetrate its secrets, both pleasant and sorrowful, and those fabulous legends of which it was the scene.

General View, Toledo, Ohio

Toledo, Ohio

TOLEDO stands on historic ground. According to Nevin O. Winter, local historian, the shadowy claim of Spain was followed by the actual sovereignty of France over the so-called New France, which lasted until 1763, the year of Pontiac's conspiracy. That famous Indian chief camped many times on the shores of the Maumee where great industrial plants and railroad terminals are now located. The British occupancy lasted, with a brief interval after Wayne's victory at Fallen Timbers, until the decisive defeat at Fort Meigs in 1813.

Toledo had a humble beginning and when compared with the city for which it was named, the majestic old walled city with its memories of the conquering Moors, it is still in its infancy. There are those still living who paddled canoes and skated on the sites of towering skyscrapers and caught frogs in stagnant pools where great institutions and busy stores now serve the people. This is typical of the startling newness of these great cities of America.

The site upon which Toledo now stands has been known by several names. Upon the wall of a building on the northeast corner of Monroe and Summit streets is an inscription reading, "This building stands upon the site of Fort Industry, a stockade erected by General Anthony Wayne in 1794." Later in 1817 two rival towns, Port Lawrence and Vistula, were platted.

The first building in Port Lawrence, a two-story log warehouse, was erected at the mouth of the Swan Creek about 1820. Its completion was the occasion for celebration among the pioneers. By 1823, two log warehouses and a few small huts clustered about Summit and Monroe streets, the site of old Fort Industry.

Near Cherry and Summit streets dwelt Major Benjamin Franklin Stickney, who became dissatisfied with Port Lawrence and laid out the rival town of Vistula, which began at Orange street and extended down the river several blocks. At a public meeting of Port Lawrence and Vistula citizens in 1833 it was agreed to unite the two settlements under a new name. Several persons have been credited with being the first to propose the name Toledo, but the generally accepted story is that the name was suggested by Willard J. Daniels, a merchant of Vistula. He had been reading Spanish history and suggested the name Toledo, the same as that of the ancient capitol of Spain, using the argument that the word was easily pronounced, was pleasant in sound, and that there was no place of that name on the western continent. His suggestion was accepted and, in 1837, the city was incorporated under this name. John H. Doyle in his book, A Story of Early Toledo, gives James Irvin Brown, a newspaper editor, the credit for suggesting the name.

In 1833 Jessup W. Scott arrived at Perrysburg and began publishing the Miami of the Lake, the first newspaper of the Maumee Valley. Soon afterwards he moved to Toledo where he became a prominent business leader. With wise foresight he purchased seventy acres of land just west of the business center at $12.00 an acre, which is now worth millions. When he died, he left a quarter of a section of land and some money to establish the "Toledo University of Arts and Trades." From this small endowment has developed our great municipal university.

One century later, Toledo, with a population of 300,000, is a city of many public buildings and parks, institutions of all kinds, fully equipped hospitals, and is an industrial center. Its schools rank with the best when compared with those in other cities of its size. It has one of the largest museums and one of the most complete zoos in the country. In size it is the third largest railroad center, and as a shipping port, it has a natural harbor which assures its importance as a future world port upon the completion of the St. Lawrence Waterway. Today, we point to our Toledo with pride in its past and assurance for its future.

University of Toledo, Spain

TOLEDO was the seat of a university for four hundred years. Later the faculty of this university was absorbed by that of the University of Madrid.

The building, then a university, is today occupied by an important State institute, which is the pride of the province. In addition to this, there are numerous elementary schools. Also the famous Alcazar palace is today a Government Military Academy, without doubt, one of the best of its kind.

All the buildings occupied by these educational institutions are monuments of art comprising a varied range of styles and epochs. For instance, the College of Santa Catalina, presents the final development of art, so rich, so sumptuous that one regrets that the new civilization has permitted its disappearance, thus not cultivating genius like that of those olden days.

Cathedral of Toledo, Spain

TO the west of the city, where one sees a conglomeration of buildings with roofs of different heights, appears the sumptuous tower of the Cathedral. This artistic tower, like all tall and graceful constructions, from a distance gives the spectator a rare illusion—it seems that it does not stand firm and that the gusts of wind rock it gently as a palm tree.

The construction of the Cathedral was begun early in the XIII century. However, its general form could not be appreciated until the end of that century, and it was completed at the beginning of the XV century. Like all cathedrals of the Middle Ages, so enormous, so complex, it needed, like a geological strata, entire centuries of slow and continuous elaboration. This Cathedral is in itself a treasure of art and reliquaries. Everything therein represents the artistic temperament of those Christians. There are many master pieces of art which one could not attempt to describe. However, let us review hurriedly the famous choir of this Cathedral.

The choir stalls of everlasting fame are a magnificence of the Spanish Renaissance. To describe that art in wood in detail would take pages. The complete history of the wars of Granada is carved on the back of the seats. However, the most curious and truly noteworthy are the roguish devils which adorn the arms of the seats. With charming candor there are artistically carved panels of those showing monks with donkey ears, etc. There are several monkeys pirouetting on another place, and in a corner there is represented the dog-beadle with a whip in his hands, grave as a judge, and many others which cause one to wonder at the toleration of the clergy of that epoch. The seventy chairs of the chanters of the gospel and epistle comprise a work of art worth seeing.

First Baptist Church, Toledo, Ohio

San Juan de los Reyes, Toledo, Spain

AFTER the Cathedral this Temple is the most artistic Gothic structure in Toledo, although rather despoiled by unappreciative invaders. It is one of the richest and most beautiful specimens of florescent Gothic architecture in Spain. It is a building of inestimable merit, erected by the Catholic kings in fulfillment of a vow made for the ending of the war in Portugal, and originally intended to be their sepulchre. Its cloisters, which enjoy universal fame, are perhaps the piece of Spanish architecture of which most reproductions have been made in foreign lands, existing as a model in all the schools in France.

The Church itself, although of great beauty, is inferior to the cloisters which are as perfect a work of their type as is humanly possible. The Church is luxurious and marvelously decorated, as the cloisters are; however, the art and decorations of the latter are more graceful.

Among many peculiarities in this monastery, the traveller finds three outstanding. One is the door which communicates with the cloisters. This door has a cross and two statues which resemble Ferdinand and Isabella. Another is a terrible allegory put in the refectory of the monks by order of the Queen. In an horizontal niche over the door there is a figure carved in horrible reality, which represents a corpse in the stage of putrification. Therefore, the monks had always in sight while eating, the image of death with all its horror and the repugnance of the corpse in that stage. The third peculiarity is some chains of the Christian captives liberated during the conquest of Granada, hanging on the exterior of the building.

Lower—Interior of San Juan de Los Reyes

The art presented in this Temple, like all the other ancient churches, palaces, etc., in Toledo, is so rich, so sumptuous, that it is more proper for expressing the enchantments of life than for serving as a medium of interpretation of mysticism and religious sentiments.

Gates of Toledo, Spain

AS related in the foregoing history of Toledo, the city is surrounded by the river Tagus, with the exception of the northern section. Access to the city is obtained, of course, through bridges. One of them, shown on the sketch on page 2, is without doubt the most picturesque and ancient. Of Moorish] origin, it was constructed almost entirely during the reign of Alphonso X, in the year 1258.

After crossing the bridges one encounters a series of gates. The one that most attracts the attention of the traveller is the Gate of the Sun. This was built in the year 1100 to protect the city in case the front line should yield. This gate, which today can be appreciated in all its beauty, is a monument which shows the Arabic tentative to reach the complete artistic domination peculiar to them. Its walls, loopholes and balconies are more properly those of a palace than of a fortress.

The Bisagra Gate, another marvel of art, is believed to have remained intact since the period of the Musulmans. The other gates giving access to the city rank equally high from the standpoint of art and architecture.

It is within these gates, which are truly fortresses, where one finds the narrow streets and gloomy houses, a great conglomeration in which the high walls of the palaces and the towers of the mosques stand out.

Art Museum, Toledo, Ohio

House of "El Greco"

IN the XVI century there still existed some remains of the palace which the people called the "Principal Houses of the Marquis of Villena." This palace was reconstructed and enriched with remains of other constructions in Toledo and masterpieces of art. About the year 1585, the principal apartments of this palace were occupied by the famous painter, "El Greco," and since then it is known as El Greco's House.

It was there where El Greco painted his marvelous pictures, among them the immortal and internationally known The Burial of the Count of Orgaz. And in this palace, on April 7, 1614, the great painter died.

The lower garden is beautiful and strange, without comparison to any other gardens that you may have seen. What intriguing stories and fantastic legends cluster around this spot.

Then there come the upper gardens, the walls covered with ivy, masses of blossoms and the remnants of the splendid decorations of old buildings which the weight of years and men's neglect have brought to the ground. One cannot help but look inquisitively at these few relics of the past, striving to read the secrets which they hide, and to recall the legends of which they were the scene.

Today, each apartment of this palace is a miniature museum filled with antique furniture, carvings and paintings, by no others than El Greco, Valdes Leal, Carreño, Mazo, Errera the Elder and Murillo.

In addition to the El Greco House there are several other important museums in Toledo, among them the unique one in the Hospital of San Juan Bautista. This is a complete museum of pharmacy of the XVI century. There are, among other curiosities, pieces of white coral which in that epoch were used to cure stomach illnesses.

In the summer of 1922, two residents of Toledo, Ohio, were motoring through Spain. In love with Spanish architecture and expecting to build a house on their return, they found every tile-roofed and rambling farmhouse full of suggestions. But when in Toledo, Spain, they entered the House of "El Greco," they turned to each other, and said in the same breath, "This is the one!" So it came about that the home of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Stevens was built as we see it in the accompanying picture,—a bit of Old Toledo on the banks of the Maumee River. One enters by way of an iron grill gate all green and crumbling with age to find on every hand Old World beauty; and one carries away a memory of ancient polychromed doors, of the great carved walnut fireplace with its heraldic tapestry, and of fine old Spanish furniture seen by the light of the tapers in a great cathedral candelabra.

Streets of Toledo, Spain

THE absence of traffic in the maze of narrow winding streets creates a silence uncommon in a city of 26,500 inhabitants. These narrow, almost impassable streets were in ancient times of more pleasant aspect and very picturesque. The abundance of awnings, and the variety of colorful curtains hanging from the double arched windows gave these streets a very beautiful and gay appearance. On these streets met merchants of the Occident and Orient. Rich cloths, pearls from the Orient, coral from Barbary, jewels from Venice, amber and myrrh from Asia Minor, rugs from Persia, etc., were sold here.

Madison Avenue, Toledo, Ohio

Plaza de Zocodover

THE Plaza of Zocodover is the center of life in Toledo. On one side of this square, surrounded by ancient buildings and a series of arches and columns, one observes a picturesque scene,—“The Bloody Arch.” This Moorish arch of simple but beautiful type, with what one sees behind it, truly form a picture worthy of contemplation, especially in the moonlight. This square is an historical one, where, in the course of time, all the languages of Europe have been spoken, and where during the most flourishing period, as on the streets, all the products of the Orient and Occident were displayed.

Santa Maria la Blanca, Toledo, Spain

IN the eastern section of the City the Jews had a large colony and their famous Synagogue, Santa Maria la Blanca. Later, this Synagogue was transformed into a mosque, and then taken and consecrated by the Christians. Since there is little in architecture which is purely Hebrew, the Synagogue is of Arabic architecture. Built about the XI century, they took the ancient basilicas as model to build the interior of the Synagogue. There is little of interest about the exterior, with the exception of the patio where one finds the pools for the ablution ceremony used by the early worshipers.

Contemplating the magnificent naves of its interior and the twenty-eight arches, which, in form of a horse shoe, rest on thirty-two columns with mosaic and capitals, one has the impression as Gautier said, "of finding oneself really in the Orient." Someone else remarked that the interior of this Synagogue is more beautiful and more delicate than the Roman edifices.

El Transito

THIS is another synagogue which is a sample of the opulence of the Israelites in Toledo and of the luxury of the XIV Century. This Synagogue, built by a Jew, Samuel Levi, Treasurer of King Don Pedro the Cruel, does not resemble in any way

Upper—Synagogue "El Transito," Toledo, Spain

Lower—Interior Synagogue "Santa Maria la Blanca," Toledo, Spain

Santa Maria la Blanca. It is perhaps of more architectural value than this, but inferior in ornamentation, riches and luxury. However, the beams of the ceiling of El Transito are of much interest. These beams are said to be made of cedars of Lebanon brought from Asia with a tremendous transportation cost, at the expense of the founder.

Hospitals and Orphanages, Toledo, Spain

THERE are several hospitals and orphanages in Toledo, among them the Hospital of Tavera, Hospital of Santa Clara, Hospital of San Juan Bautista, and Hospital of Santa Cruz, which really are museums of architectural art worth seeing.

As mentioned on page 20, there is a complete museum of pharmacy of the XVI century in the Hospital of San Juan Bautista. The Hospital of Santa Clara, founded by a Cardinal, is the most finished sample of the transition from the Gothic epoch to the Renaissance. The entrance, the patio and the stairway are splendid. These gentlemen, thanks to their enormous wealth, filled with marvels of art these edifices dedicated to alleviate suffering.

Patio of Hospital of Tavera,
Toledo, Spain

The Hospital of Tavera is notable for its double patio, formed by arches, somewhat similar to those of the Alcazar. All these Hospitals have their own church, and the outstanding feature of the church of the Hospital Tavera is the tomb of its founder, the last work of the famous sculptor Berruguete, who died there upon the completion of this masterpiece.

Alcazar, Toledo, Spain

THE Alcazar, built about the XV Century, is a great work of art. So impressive, so opulent, that one could say that it is one of the most stupendous constructions that the autocrats of that time left in Europe. The Alcazar rests on a mass of granite overlooking the rest of the city. The roofs of the houses in Toledo are even lower than its foundations. From the Alcazar one sees an impressive view, and the location of the "throne" is such that he who climbs the stairs and looks out from its balconies, has the illusion of having Spain at his feet. The stairway of the interior of the Alcazar is of such magnificence that Charles V said that he only considered himself King of Spain when he was in the stairway. In the year 1883 the Alcazar became a military academy and today it is one of the most important in Spain.

Armory, Toledo, Ohio

There are so many legendary buildings in Toledo worthy of mention that it would be a great task to describe them all. However, may we take this space to mention two?

Taller de los Moros

The Moorish Shop is the remains of a wonderful palace. This building has a marvelous ceiling, its arches full of stalactites. The walls are decorated with a very rich gold, blue and red, which seem as if they were a tapestry embroidered by a very subtle needle.

The Queen's Towers, Toledo, Spain

Alcazar, Toledo, Spain

Palacio de la Galiana

The Palace of Galiana dates from the time of Alphonso XI. This palace was named for the daughter of a vain and petulant Moor known as Galafre. History paints Galiana as a very beautiful woman. Among her many suitors were Bradamante, King of Guadalupe, and Charles-Magne of France. As a result of a quarrel over her, Charles-Magne cut off the head of Bradamante and presented it to the beautiful Galiana, who, thereupon, accepted his hand, was converted to Christianity and married Charles-Magne.

Cristo de la Luz, Toledo, Spain

THE legendary Christ of the Light has been in the span of years Gothic Temple, Synagogue, and Christian Church. The fabulous but intriguing legends have played a part in the history of this temple. One legend goes that there was a wooden statue of Christ at the door of the temple. A passing Jew, vengeful, threw a lance at the figure. To the astonishment of this individual, the wooden Christ began to bleed copiously. The Jew was immediately converted to Christianity.

Another version exists in popular literature which tells us that two Jews once stole the Christ and they were stoned to death by the populace. These accounts are extraordinary, but not as fantastic as the one which gave the name of "Christ of the Light" to this temple. It is said that when Toledo was conquered by the Moors, a light was burning before a crucifix in the interior of the temple, and that light remained burning during the three hundred and sixty years of the Moorish domination.

There is today the supposed coat of mail of the Cid hanging on one of the arches of this temple, which was placed there by the king himself in memory of his horse, the famous Babieca, which, according to the legend, stopped and knelt before the figure of Christ when the Cid took Toledo. These strange occurrences have passed from mouth to mouth through fifty generations to the present day.

Castillo de San Servando

THE castle of San Servando located on the hill opposite the city in front of the Alcantara Bridge, has probably been the most curious of the castles. Its history is a series of misfortunes. Just completed by Alphonso V, one of the Moorish tribe who tried to conquer Toledo attacked the castle, expelling the monks and burning the hill. Later it was again attacked twice, until it was occupied by the Templars who were able to sustain the attacks of the Moors it being then the defense and principal bastion of the city.

Cristo de la Vega, Toledo, Spain

THE "Christ of Vega" or "Basilica of St. Leocadia," also pertains to the epoch of miracles. The Age of Chivalry could not but find some of its pages in this artistic church. The most famous legend is that which illustrates the strange attitude of the Christ venerated there, as you will note on the illustration shown on the opposite page. The story goes that there was a cavalier who had given his promise of marriage to a beautiful young girl of Toledo. She belonged to the poor class, and he was one of the ruling noblemen. His promise of marriage to her was sworn to before the figure of this crucified Christ, then at the door of the Church. As he was of the noble class, apparently he was not concerned over his promises to that young girl, and so, when the date arrived, he refused to keep his word.

She did not know what to do, and the only witness was a wooden image which, of course, could not make him fulfill what she had believed to be his word of honor. She, nevertheless, full of faith and anguish, took her lover in the presence of the Christ, and asked the divine image if it were not true that this disloyal sweetheart had given his oath of marriage. The Christ immediately lowered its right arm as a sign of assent. The cavalier, overcome with surprise and fear, thereupon fulfilled his promise.

This image has retained the lowered right arm for centuries, which position does not have any reasonable explanation up to the present time, and, of course, attracts much attention.

TOLEDO, Ohio, has not only a Spanish name but also has a replica of a very famous tower in Spain. Compare the Security Bank Building tower with that of "La Giralda" of Seville.

The Cathedral of our city is to be the recipient of a stone from the Cathedral of Toledo, Spain. Toledo, Spain, has also donated their old Seal to this University. There are, too, several pairs of the renowned Toledo blades in this city.

City Hall, Toledo, Spain

As we were not able to describe the City Hall of Toledo, Spain, illustrated on page 4, we are dedicating this space to it.

The City Hall was built in the XV century and restored in the XVII. The interior of this building is of great artistic merit. Manrique's poem which is engraved on the

A liberal translation is as follows: "Nobles, discreet gentlemen who govern Toledo,—on these steps cast aside individual affections, greed, love and fear, for the common good,—since God made you pillars of such a rich construction, remain firm and upright."

The University was fortunate, again, in having available someone who could immediately assume this responsibility, and his untiring work should be an inspiration to all University men and women.

Student Council

THE STUDENT COUNCIL of the University of Toledo is the student governing body. The Dean of Women and the Dean of Men act as its faculty advisers. The Council is made up of two representatives from each class, four representatives-at-large and the President.

This year marks the first year that the Student Council has had a systematic record and control of student affairs. This has been accomplished by a comprehensive plan of office control, constitutional work and Student Activity Trust Fund work.

In honor of our late President, Henry J. Doermann, the Student Council took the initiative in the naming of the "Henry J. Doermann Theatre," and in the purchase of a portrait of him. This project was later taken over by the entire student body.

The Council further took upon itself the work of sponsoring an educational program for the Toledo High Schools. This work was done by the Presidents of all student organizations. Their main purpose was to show the high school seniors the possibilities, the advantages and the work offered at the University of Toledo.

Again this year the Student Council was represented at the annual National Student Federation of America Convention held in New Orleans. In 1932, the Student Council was honored by the N. S. F. A. in that it acted as regional representative for the national organization.

Senior Class History

THE Class of 1933 assembled in the gym of the old Nebraska Avenue building in the fall of 1929. Greeted by the usual Freshman Week program—including explanations of University activities, the entrance examinations, and finally a dance, they were speedily made to feel at home. During Freshman Week, Burt Wing was chosen as class president, assisted by Evelyn Aubrey, vice-president, Ruth Butler, secretary, and William Snow, treasurer. Burt Wing withdrew from school and Evelyn Aubrey became the first woman president of a Freshman class. The "Frosh Frisk," the first social event to be given for the University, was a memorable and happy event of May 3, in the old gym.

Although the class of '33 missed the exciting campaign for the Bond Issue it, did not miss the thrill of watching the new University Hall being erected or the memorable event of moving into this spacious and beautiful building in January of 1931. This year the class elected Robert Gosline president, Sue Blanchard, vice-president, Margaret Perry, secretary, and Russell Ryerson, treasurer, and held their class dance May 9 in the new Physical Education Building.

They returned to the University in the fall of 1931 with a feeling of security and pride, realizing that they were upper-classmen. For the second time they elected Robert Gosline president. His corps of officers included Grace Lanzinger, vice-president, Thelma Miller, secretary, and Coyle Smith, treasurer. The most important event for the year was the annual Junior Prom on April 17, at the Trianon. The committee, under the chairmanship of Alan Emerson, arranged a very attractive social event. The crowning of Sue Blanchard of the class of '33 as May Queen was another memorable event.

Now, as Seniors, we have for the third time elected our able fellow student, Robert Gosline, as president. Our other officers include John Arnold, vice-president, Madelyn Pope, secretary, and Seth Lloyd, treasurer.

Attractive social events, including the Senior Banquet, the Senior Prom on May 5 at the Trianon, were arranged. Thoughts of graduation came with a feeling of regret to leave the University, the faculty and our many friends, each of us to go his way in search of success.

Farewell

WE leave The University with pleasant remembrances of four years filled with activity and study, with wishes of success for the Administration and all the ensuing classes, and with a feeling of the deepest regret for the loss of our president, Dr. Henry J. Doermann.

His example of forcefulness and determination will help us call out a louder challenge to our new and more exacting world.

Farewell.

ROBERT B. GOSLINE,
Senior Class President.

JUNIOR CLASS

TO be a member of the class of 1934 means belonging to a group that counts to its honor the fact that as a class they shall be the first to enter and leave the new buildings. This may have been an outstanding basis for the breadth and depth of class spirit that has been maintained for three successive years.

The auspicious career of this Freshman class began with the election of Don Appel as president, assisted by Virginia Storm, Jack Taylor, and Spencer Northrup. The Freshman Dance had long been anticipated, and proved to be a big success with Dick Brayton as chairman.

During the Sophomore year, Robert Florian, Virginia Storm, Charlotte Kepner and Donald McLean headed the class. There was a marked increase in participation of the members in scholarships, athletics, dramatics, journalism, and social life. Under Norton Heyward the Sophomore Dance was held at the Trianon because of the anticipated large attendance.

The third year found the Junior Class assuming their rightful position in leadership of University affairs under the guidance of Donald McLean, Fay Lang, Irene Carr, and Marlen Schwachenwald. The formal Junior Prom, given during Christmas festivities, was the outstanding social affair of the year. The capable committee consisted of Madison Dean, Catherine Huston, Charlotte Kepner, Helen Davis, Carl Kumpe, James Montgomery, and John Sheridan.

SOPHOMORE CLASS

THE end of a week of revelations, Freshman Week, was duly climaxed by the Freshman Mixer, which stirred six hundred and six Freshmen into the mass of eager seekers of higher education and helped to break all former records for T. U. enrollments. As the result of the first election held by this class of '35, Robert McNaull was chosen president, Gordon Ames, vice-president, Julia Ann Folger, secretary, and Fred Ritter, treasurer, while Virginia Sherwood and Allen Andrews were sent to the Student Council.

With a sigh of relief and the usual good resolutions, the second semester began. The new class now felt more at home and began to realize how many things there were to do besides study—despite their resolutions. Sorority Rushing began and was over before the newcomers knew what was going on; several Freshman debating team class members began to be active in organizations. Finally, the class elections were held amidst the year's-end flurry, and LaVerne Drake, Anna Folger, Margaret White, and William Teel were entrusted with the administration of the year to come, while Virginia Sherwood and Allen Andrews retained their places in the Student Council.

FRESHMAN CLASS

FRESHMAN Week officially began September 12, 1932. Real initiation for the class of '36 came, however, with the traditional tug of war with the Sophomores in which the first year men were dragged through the creek. In the meantime, the class was organized and chose as its officers Fred Lutz, president; Ralph Connors, vice-president; Nita Gavaris, secretary; Charles Schultz, treasurer, Sue Sherer and James Kressler, Student Council Representatives.

Then the fraternity rushing season arrived with its air of suspense and excitement and after the first week of October there were many ever-willing pledges about. There was evidence also of athletic merit in the new class as coaches Connelly, Robare and Nicholson reviewed the track squad, introduced some new football tactics, and began work on the basketball material, while the freshmen women were active in the volleyball and hockey tournaments.

All too quickly the Christmas vacation passed, exams were held, and the second semester was well on its way. Results of those long hours of grindstone duty of the first semester were made public when the freshman class presented 25 members to the Honor Roll, leading all the other classes. The hard work of the new semester was somewhat lightened by sorority rushing and the Frosh dance. William Dupont was chairman of the latter which was held at the Trianon ballroom, February 17. Early in March it was necessary to hold a special election at which Mary Fraser became representative in the place of Sue Sherer, who transferred.

David V. Connelly

The office of Athletic Director is the goal of many coaches, for it means that the long struggle with finances and routine work is almost past. However, the "A. D." of the University of Toledo must carry a large part of the coaching duties, and in addition to this, he must be a financial genius.

Athletic Director David V. Connelly has fulfilled these requirements satisfactorily. It has been a long struggle, but his aggressiveness and stability have made him a victor in every field that he dared to venture.

His success has been gained, to a great extent, through his willingness to co-operate with the student body and his associates. Dave deserves a great deal of credit for his work since he has been at the University of Toledo.

James Nicholson

The University of Toledo owes Coach Jim Nicholson a good football team and 1933 already looks as though it will be the destiny year for both the Rocket gridiron squad and its capable and likeable young coach.

Three years ago Nicholson came to Toledo U as head coach of football only to find the squad torn by internal dissension. The next year the financial situation prohibited the prospect of putting a team on the field. Together with these obstacles, in his first two years, Coach Nicholson had indifferent material because of the great athletic migration to other colleges.

Last year Nicholson had a fighting chance and he turned in a creditable season. The players were well grounded in his system and showed the advantages of fine Nicholson coaching. This year should be Jim's because of the renewed spirit caused by the great quantity of first class grid material.

Coaching Staff

Andy Vanyo

A few years ago Ypsilanti College tied a great University of Michigan football squad in an upset that echoed from coast to coast.

One of the large factors which aided Ypsilanti to accomplish the Herculean feat of stopping the Wolverines was the vicious line play of the boys from Michigan Normal. Andy Vanyo, now line coach at the University of Toledo, was right in the center of Ypsi's line stopping the Wolverine backs time and again. Many sport experts viewing the game immediately selected Vanyo for their all-American squads.

Vanyo is bringing his boys along in this style of play and last season's line can pay no higher tribute to its coach than to play the hard, smashing type of game it is capable of.

Charles Wertz

Like Vanyo, Chuck won All-American mention while in college, and proved himself an able assistant to Coach Nicholson. Serving as backfield coach, he did an excellent job of developing the inexperienced backfield material this year. With all of this material back next year, Chuck expects to have a well-rounded backfield. He deserves all of the confidence which we have in him.

Richard Burman

Burman was the largest man on the Rocket squad but it was not his size alone which made him formidable. He was an aggressive and spectacular player, the type any football fan wants to see. He was a veritable tower of strength in the Rocket line this year and will return next year.

Billy Wiles

Wiles was the spark plug of Coach Nicholson's football machine this year. He had that knack, which every star must have, of being in the right place at the right time, and doing the right thing at the right time. He was the team's star runner, passer and punter. Like the majority of the other players on the squad, Wiles is a Sophomore. It is around him that the team will be built next year.

Louis Bolton

Bolton was not the flashy, spectacular type of player, but played his end position in such a consistent manner that Nicholson had little to worry about at this position. Louis was at his best on defense. Few gains were made around his end. He should have no trouble in holding this position next year.

Robert Baumgartner

Bob, in his first year on the Varsity, demonstrated his ability in no mean manner as an aggressive lineman. In the first game particularly, he proved that a good lineman is invaluable in a football game. Bob is a Junior this year and expects to be playing again next year.

"Smoky" Smolinski

"Smoky" was one of the finest blocking halfbacks in the Ohio Conference this year. His blocking cleared the way for many substantial gains. Every coach realizes the value and necessity of an effective blocker, although the average witness does not appreciate his importance. "Smoky" is equally dependable on defense. Coach Nicholson is justified in expecting great things from "Smoky" in the next two years.

Tom Gillooly

Gillooly was one of the smallest men of the squad this year, but he set out to earn a guard position. What he lacked in size he made up for in energy and an indomitable spirit which was always apparent. He was one of the most consistently effective men on the line.

Robert Gosline

This is "Bob's" last year at the University of Toledo. An excellent scholar and an excellent football player, Bob has served the school faithfully and well in both capacities. Although a knee injury which he sustained late in the season will probably keep him from playing any more football, he has made his mark in this sport, a record of which he may well be proud.

Harold Gerson

Enthusiasm plus hard work were responsible for Harold's making a fine showing, although he refuses to admit it, in his favorite sport. Here is another good reason for the adage that "a team is no stronger than its linesmen."

Peck Martin

This was Martin's first year with the Varsity. He came to the University with the record of being all-city fullback during his last year in high school and readily earned a regular position. He had the fast, hard driving power and the fight which any good fullback must have. Peck should be a great help to the Rockets in the next two years.

"Chick" Carson

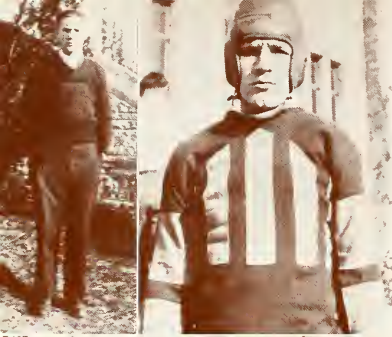

Carson this year held the position of varsity quarterback, and handled the job capably. He was a fiery leader and always a dynamo of energy, whether it was in practice or in a game. Although he was small and light for a college player, Chick was a shifty runner and extremely agile. A shoulder injury bothered him after mid-season and prevented him from participating in every game in his last season as a varsity player.

J. Carleton Hissong

Babe Hissong was one of the finest tackles to play on a T. U. team for many years. Many plays were smashed when he went straight in and smeared the ball carrier. Although he was handicapped by injuries, he was out there playing in every game. This is Babe's last year, and it is going to be difficult to fill his position next season.

Orin Neff

Born with a natural love and a natural ability for football, Neff proved himself to be one of the finest ends ever to play for this University. He was not only a wonderful pass receiver and a very fast man, but also a hard-driving, shifty runner, and played halfback occasionally. Neff is a Sophomore this year and should establish a fine record before he graduates.

Gordon Thayer

Thayer, the Rocket's diminutive Sophomore quarterback, handled the quarterback position upon Carson's injury with the skill and judgment of an experienced player. The capable way in which he directed the team in the last game, against Otterbein, established him as the leading candidate to fill the vacancy at this position created by Carson's graduation this year.

Jim Gross

Jim was a consistent player who never gave up. When he was put into a game he fought from start to finish with the result that the opponent's gains through his position were few. He is a Senior this year and will be greatly missed next year.

George Smead

Although an injury to his heel handicapped George throughout the year in running on the football field, it in no way retarded his driving speed and elusiveness while playing. Besides being an excellent running halfback, he was one of the hardest tacklers in the backfield while on defense. There is every reason to believe that next year, George's last with the Gold and Blue, will be his best.

Adam Najarian

Adam, this season, filled the role of relief center, and handled the job capably. A strong, stocky man, Najarian keeps in shape the year around by competing in University wrestling. He should fit into the Rocket system well next fall.

1932 Football Season

BRILLIANCY as well as mediocrity characterized the 1932 football team of the University of Toledo. After a moderately successful season, the Rockets rose to heights seldom attained by any athletes and defeated the strong Otterbein aggregation in the final game.

In the initial encounter of the year the University of Toledo defeated Capital University of Columbus, 18 - 0. Aided by superb line play, Martin scored in the second period, after an exchange of punts and the blocking by Bolton of a Capital punt on their 5-yard line. Later in the game, Gross recovered another Capital fumble to place the Rockets in position to score. Martin again crossed the goal for another six points. The Rockets made their final tally when Wiles, after the interception of a Capital pass, broke loose around the end to score unmolested.

Rocket fans immediately began to "count chickens." To them the Conference championship was already won.

On the following Saturday, the Rockets failed to equal their efforts of the previous week. Overconfidence was largely responsible for their defeat at the hands of Detroit City College, by the score of 3 - 0. Fitzgerald of Detroit and Wiles of Toledo engaged in a punting duel during the entire first half, impregnable defense making all other plays impossible. Detroit made a bid for a score in the third period, but was stopped when Gosline recovered a Detroit fumble on the Toledo 10-yard line. The Rocket offense developed in the fourth quarter and the ball was advanced to the Detroit 13-yard line, but was lost on downs. In an inspired drive, Detroit marched down the field to the Rocket 11-yard line where, aided by a Toledo substitution, they were able to score a field goal in the last eight seconds of the game.

Toledo was unable to withstand the onslaught of the heavier Heidelberg team which featured Zipel, a 210-pound fullback, who gained at will. In the third quarter Duhaime broke away for a number of substantial gains before he was removed from the lineup. The final score was 12 - 0 in favor of the Student Princes.

The Rockets staged a comeback in the home-coming game to win their second Ohio Conference victory by defeating Marietta 6 - 0. Wiles made the only score of the game by a spectacular cut-back through his own right tackle from Toledo's 44-yard line. Straightening up after the Marietta secondary defense, he accomplished the miracle of eluding the safety man to score. The try for point hit the cross bar and bounced back onto the playing field.

After the game with Marietta, it was expected that the University would duplicate this victory against the Ohio State "B" squad, but such was not the case.

Besides lacking the punch to score after reaching the enemy territory, the Rockets were severely handicapped by the lack of reserve material. This put Ohio State in scoring position. A State back, seeing all his eligible pass receivers covered, was forced to run the ball, which he did for a considerable gain through the line.

The Rockets completely outclassed their traditional rival at Bowling Green but the Falcons passed their way to victory. In the second period the Toledo team took the ball on its 33-yard line and made a steady drive which ended in a touchdown by Duhaime from the 16-yard line.

The old Rocket trouble of failing to score when in scoring territory took Toledo and we were on the short end of a 12 - 6 score.

The Rockets closed the season by winning 12 - 7 against Otterbein, a supposedly much stronger team, in the sensational upset of the season. In the second quarter "Smoky" Smolenski scored on a pass from Neff on the Otterbein 35-yard line. The Brethren scored by a sustained march from their 25-yard line and assumed a one-point lead when the plunge for the extra point was successful. Undaunted, the Rockets, under the able direction of Gordon Thayer, quarterback, took the ball from its own 20-yard line down the field for its game-winning touchdown.

Joe Shanks

BASKETBALL

G. BARTH

BASKETBALL

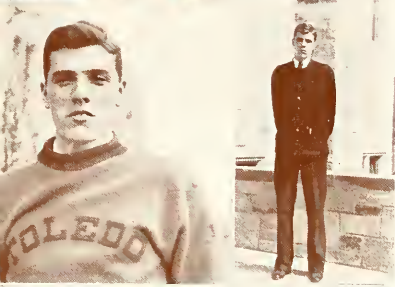

John Dowd

Johnny Dowd was the nucleus around which Coach Dave Connelly built his defense. Dowd is not very large, but experience coupled with cool common sense and the old fighting spirit stamped Johnny as the best defensive man on the Rocket squad.

Guy McLaughlin

Height means a lot in basketball, and Guy McLaughlin has plenty of that, in addition to inherent basketball ability. Guy played a good share of the games and he, also, has two more years of competition at the University.

Don Garner

Garner was also discovered in an intra-mural tourney and has enjoyed marked success under Dave Connelly. He is rangy and an accurate shot as well as a fine team worker. Garner has one more year in the University of Toledo.

Bob Gosline

Bob Gosline ended his college basketball career in the Bowling Green game. This marked his fourth year with Connelly and the University of Toledo cage quintet. Bob is the ideal athlete, clean, fair, and a true sportsman. His loss will be felt keenly by his fellow students and team mates.

William Richardson

Richardson did not break into many games during the season but a year under Dave Connelly means much, and Richardson should prove a great asset in the building of next year's squad.

BASKETBALL

Joe Shanks

Joe Shanks, all-Conference forward and high scorer, is one of the best basketball players ever to wear the blue and gold of the University of Toledo. Shanks is a veteran floor man and a deadly shot. Next year will be his last in a Rocket uniform, and if he improves upon his 1932-33 season, he will be one of the outstanding college players in the state.

Carl Schmuhl

Carl Schmuhl is a distinct type as basketball players go. He is exceptionally fast and aggressive and is an accurate shot from any angle of the floor. Schmuhl has put on more weight and gained lots of experience. Next year should see him at his best.

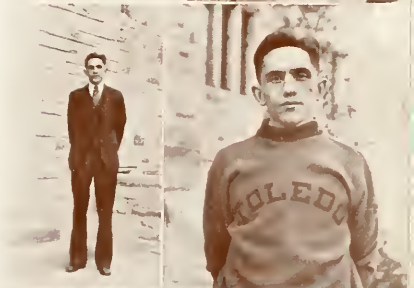

Tom Gillooly

Tommy was a valuable man, although not a regular. He made the team hustle, and he was always ready to step in, take over a position, and play it well through ability and sheer fight.

Roy Hummel

Connelly discovered Hummel in an intra-mural tourney over at the old building some four years ago and Roy has more than justified Dave's confidence in his ability with a well played 1932-1933 season. Hummel was not a high scoring player, but his passes were responsible for many points scored by others. Hummel, also, is lost to the squad this year.

LaVerne Drake

Potential power is being counted upon by Coach David Connelly for his next Ohio Conference season, and LaVerne Drake, who played center for the Rockets, has plenty of this. Drake is tall, well built and has coordination, and these are the qualities that Connelly wants next year.

LAST year we predicted better things for the spring sport schedule, but, because of a curtailed budget necessitated by the lack of funds, resulting from the local bank situation, the athletic activities were drastically limited. This prevented what promised to be a signally successful season of inter-collegiate competition.

The tennis team was limited to the meets which had been scheduled last year. The cross country team was disbanded. Even the baseball and golf teams were forced to play a restricted number of games.

Perhaps the most unfortunate feature of the depleted fund situation was that varsity "T" awards which were given to the football men could not be given to the deserving men in the other major and minor sports. We hope that these awards will be given as soon as the funds can be obtained.

1933 Basketball Season

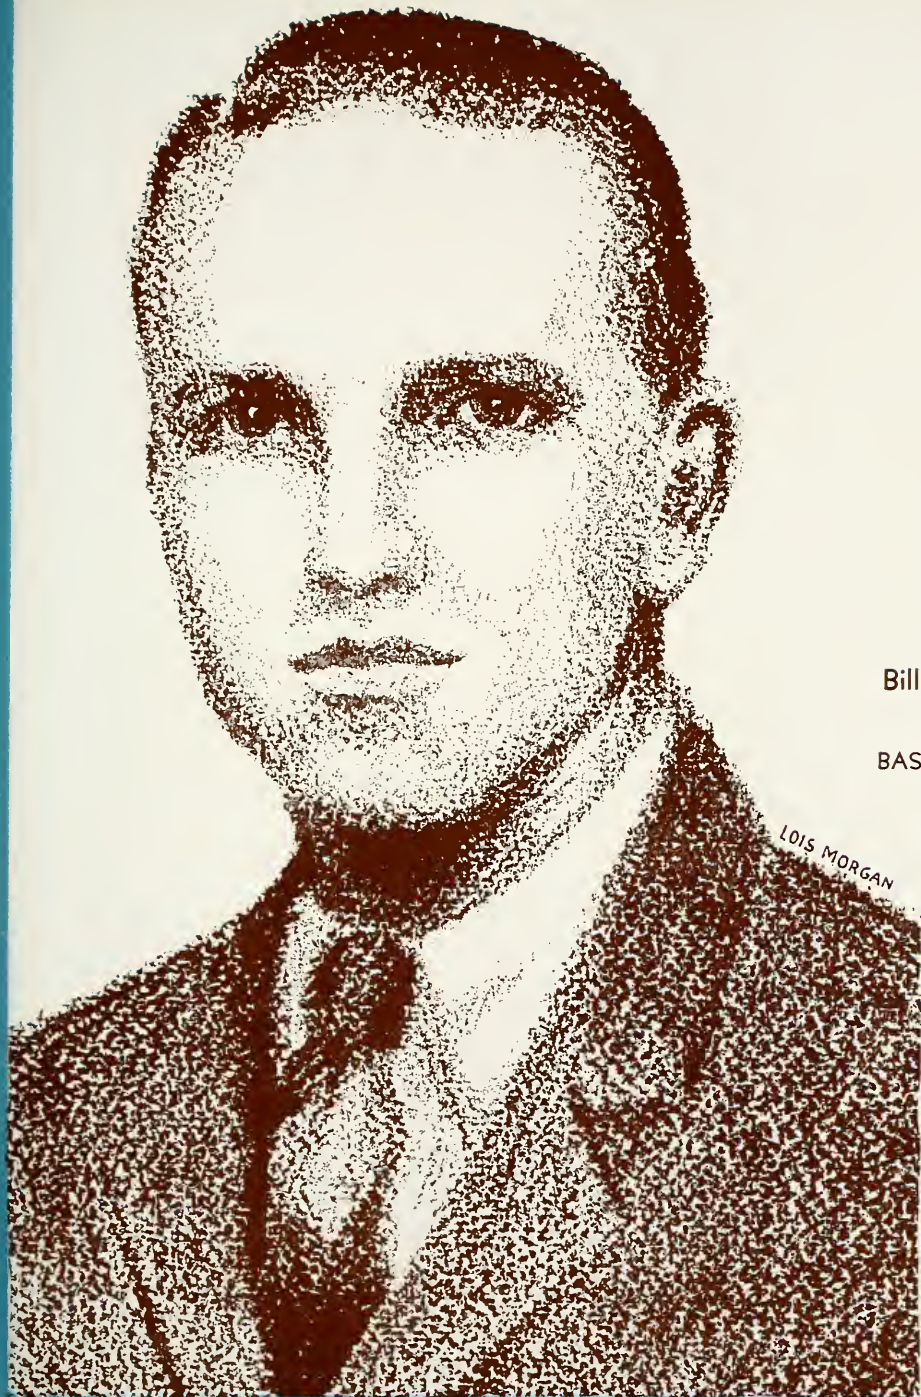

The University of Toledo completed perhaps its most discouraging basketball season in history with a conference loss to Bowling Green. Students and friends of the school, however, saw three of the strongest basketball fives in the entire country cavort on the Rocket court. Ohio State, Big Ten champion, Notre Dame, and Western Reserve appeared in the Field House at different times during the winter and were well worth the effort to bring them here.

The University ended its Ohio Conference season with three victories and eight defeats, while dropping all of its non-conference games.

The loss of the city championship to St. John's College was perhaps the biggest disappointment of the year. The Jesuits displayed a fine brand of basketball and deserved to win.

The great strength of the 1932-1933 schedule should not be taken lightly. The material with which Coach David V. Connelly had to work did not warrant such a strong booking of games.

With Joe Shanks, Johnny Dowd, LaVerne Drake, Carl Schmuhl, Harold Gerson, Keith Davis, Guy McLaughlin, and Bill Richardson back next year, and with promising prospects coming up from the freshmen in Bill Smith, Bob Biehl, John Rappalie, Ed Southard and Rol McDermott, Connelly should have ample material to build a better team for the coming year.

Bill Wiles

BASEBALL

LOIS MORGAN

BLOCKHOUSE 33

BASEBALL

"Al" Jones

"Al" has been an invaluable aid to the team. He has served his term as a player and now is lending his experience to aid the team as an assistant coach.

Edwin Monto

This year was the second year for Monto in the infield playing at the third base position. His hitting was consistent, and his fast and sure fielding featured many games.

John Arnold

Besides being active in various activities on the campus, Arnold is an enthusiastic baseball player. Because of his two years' experience he was able to play any infield position, although his usual position was second base.

James Ryan

"Jim" is known as one of the best first basemen in the Ohio Conference. His weakness at the plate was offset by his fielding ability. "Dave" plans to make a pitcher out of him next year, as a result of Jim's effectiveness in relief roles this year.

Harold Ducket

To him as much as to any other player should go a great deal of credit for the showing made by the Rockets on the baseball diamond. The University has just completed another successful season with Harold as the most consistent winning pitcher.

BASEBALL

Floyd Fennell

A good dependable utility outfielder is essential to any baseball team. Floyd filled this role this year. Lack of varsity experience handicapped him at the beginning of the season, but later he showed much promise.

Wilbur Crabbs

Crabbs was a veteran from the Rocket team of two years ago. Although he played in the outfield, he was effective as a relief pitcher.

Lowell Liest

Lowell was another first year man who, up to the time of publication, had shown not a little promise of becoming an outstanding player. His experience should make him a valuable man next year.

Patrick Gibbons

"Pat" was a hard hitting outfielder for the Rocket team as well one of its two starting pitchers. He played in every game either as pitcher or outfielder, and was one of the mainstays of the team.

"Bill" Wiles

Last year Bill was the outstanding star of the team and one of the finest outfielders in the Ohio Conference. He was exceptionally fast and his throws from the outfield were almost uncanny in their accuracy. This year he lived up to our highest expectations.

BASEBALL

Norman Summerville

As this book goes to press "Norm" has just finished his work as a member of the Rocket track squad so we are unable to review his achievements in this sport, but he is an all around athlete and his speed should assure him a berth on the squad.

Chalmers Harmon

After understudying Max Krause for two years, Harmon proved his ability as a catcher. He was an aggressive player and a capable hitter.

John Dowd

"Johnnie" this year was shifted from his usual position at third base to shortstop where he performed admirably. It will be a severe loss to University athletics when he leaves this institution.

Jacob Folger

In spite of the fact that "Jake" had had little experience in organized baseball before this year, he seemed to adapt himself naturally to the game. He played in several games as utility outfielder.

Gordon Thayer

"Gordy" is another all-around athlete that made good in baseball in spite of his lack of experience. Now that he has become a seasoned veteran we expect to print more about him in the next two years.

Carl Schmuhl

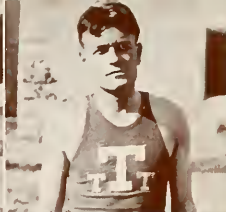

Experience as a regular man at Libbey made Carl an outstanding candidate for the team. This tall, rangy left-hander should be a mainstay on the team during his last two years.

Golf Team

THE entire Varsity Golf Team of last year will return for competition this season. With Ken Sansom, John Meier, Al Baumgartner, and John Weber returning, the Rocket squad should have an enviable season. Al Baumgartner is captain of the team. In addition to these men, Tom Gillooly, Russell Sommerville, Don McLean, Bill Richardson, Bill Miller, and several other capable golfers, are out for the team. This fine team should give the Rockets another successful season.

The outstanding engagement takes place when the University team enters the State Inter-collegiate tournament at Cleveland, Ohio. All of this year's matches will be away from home.

The record for last year was 6 wins and 3 losses, as follows:

Toledo vs. M. S. N. C.	—	Toledo 13	—	5
Toledo vs. Y of Detroit	—	Toledo 5	—	13
Toledo vs. Dayton	—	Toledo 12½	—	5½

Intramurals

AN exceptionally fine intra-mural program graced the athletic calendar for 1933-34. Eddie Robare, director of intra-mural activities, made excellent use of the facilities of the beautiful new field house. Fraternity competition in football, basketball, cross country, track, indoor baseball, foul shooting, volleyball, ping pong, wrestling, boxing, and horseshoes, was spirited throughout the year.

The only weak spot on the intra-mural program was the failure to organize an active independent group that would function with the fraternities.

Eddie Robare, aided by his student managers, Paul Bremer and Howard Packard, was instrumental in putting on the most representative athletic intra-mural program yet staged in the field house.

Volley Ball

Six fraternities took part in the volleyball tournament this year. This sport proved to be as hotly contested as the preceding events on the inter-mural program. These contests lasted only about 30 minutes, but they were 30 minutes packed with excitement and action. The fact that it was listed as a major sport furnished an added incentive to the various fraternities. Tall men predominated, and Alpha Phi Omega with six players over six feet earned the highest honors by winning all of its games. They were followed closely by Sigma Beta Phi in second place and Sigma Delta Rho, third.

Foul Shooting

As many men as desired from each fraternity could enter this sport, the five highest in each case counting in the score. The final scores were very close. Sigma Delta Rho won the event; Sigma Beta Phi and Chi Rho Nu were tied for second; Alpha Phi Omega was third.

Billy Wiles, Sigma Delta Rho, Leonard Jacobs, Alpha Phi Omega, and Paul Meier, Sigma Delta Rho, were tied for highest score, each making 29 out of a possible 40 baskets.

Inter-Fraternity Track

THE men of Sigma Beta Phi fraternity won the inter-fraternity track meet largely because John Wichter, the outstanding star of the meet, won the 60-yard dash, the 65-yard high and low hurdles, and the broad jump, all of which secured 24 points for the winning fraternity. Other winners were Adna Snyder, Alpha Phi Omega, in the mile run; Bob Woehrl, Sigma Beta Phi, in the 440-yard dash; Jacob Folger, Sigma Delta Rho, in the half-mile run; Doan Houck, Chi Beta Chi, in the high jump; George Young, Phi Kappa Chi, in the pole vault, and Bob Biehl, Sigma Beta Phi, in the shot put. Sigma Delta Rho won the University relay and Sigma Beta Phi the mile relay.

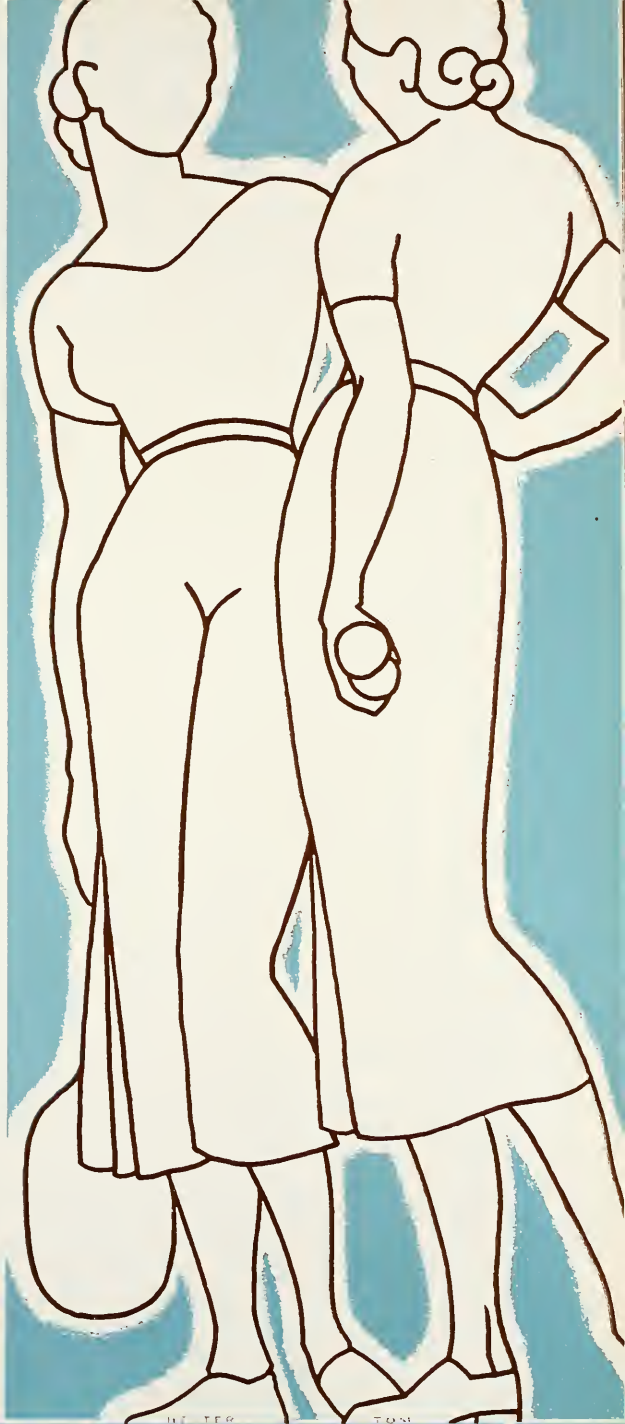

The final standings were as follows:

Sigma Beta Phi	70 $\frac{1}{2}$ points
Alpha Phi Omega	58 points
Phi Kappa Chi	39 $\frac{1}{2}$ points
Sigma Delta Rho	37 points
Chi Beta Chi	29 points
Chi Rho Nu	5 points

Our Leaders

VIM, Vigor and Vivacity are the outstanding characteristics of our two leaders, Jane Kamke, president of W. A. A., and Mrs. Marion Richley, the very active adviser. By their spirit of friendliness and cooperation they have led W. A. A. through another successful year. During the past year Jane has utilized the suggestions that she received at her former conference trips. She did this so well that she was again elected conference delegate.

It has been one of Mrs. Richley's special aims to see that the year's program benefits the organization in the most effective manner possible. "The purpose of this organization is to cooperate with the Women's Department of Physical Education in promoting health, physical efficiency, social activity, and true sportsmanship." The calendar of the year was planned to fulfill this purpose. Some of the high lights of the year's events were the Bowling Green Meet, Health Week, and the Alumni Party.

Soccer

Soccer came right to the front this year with Helen Scarlett, head of sport, bringing out forty-six recruits. A speedy set of upper classmen raced down a snow-covered field to win the tournament. Many acrobatic feats took place because of the slipperiness of the field.

Girls, sticks, and balls all flying down the field led by their peppy head of sport, Emily Sherman. The season reached its high spot when a picked team played the visitors from Bowling Green. Then along came a snowstorm just in time to stop the tournament. Each team claims it would have been the winner.

Volley Ball

Smack — Smack! Another ball clears the net and the Volleyball tournament is off for one of its best seasons. Helen Fuller, leader of this group, and Mrs. Richley based the championship on a percentage basis. The Juniors were again champions.

At a W. A. A. party the Technocrats played the Cantorcrats, while the guests chanted, "We want Cantor, we want Cantor."

Deck Tennis

Would you like to sail around the world? Play deck tennis and imagine that you are on board ship. Have you a good long arm? Then try badminton. Is tennis too strenuous? Try some ping pong. All these sports are popular the year around in the gymnasium.

Basketball

A ball rolls around the rim, hesitates, and in it goes. Another thrill from a fast basketball game. W. A. A. picked a competent basket shooting head of sport when it elected Lois Bussdieker.

The independent league tournament produced several peppy teams, with Nedra Herman's team winning. The class tournament was won by the Freshmen.

Archery

Many of Robin Hood's followers fixed their eyes on the target set up in the Arena and practiced every day. Mary Waedel was a willing opponent to anyone wishing to shoot, while Thelma Miller, high scorer of last year, won the tournament.

Baseball

Crack! There sails a ball over the heads of all the fielders as Charla Beaupre steps up to bat. Baseball is our most popular spring sport, and attracts many players. This is an activity to help acquire that first tan of the season.

Last year the Sophomores won the championship, but this year the other classes are all set to slide in for victory.

Inter-Sorority

SORORITY participation in athletics has taken a forward step this year. A definite program was planned for them. The inter-sorority committee was composed of Emily Sherman, Kappa Pi Epsilon; Wilma Shultz, Psi Chi Phi; Bessie Clayton, Zeta Gamma Phi; Kathryn Gise, Pi Delta Chi; Dorothy Samborn, Sigma Pi Delta; and Lois Bussdieker, secretary.

A point system based on participation has been established. Points made by each girl are credited to her sorority. One girl can make a maximum of seventy-four points. The sorority with the largest percentage of members participating in the most activities is awarded a trophy. Special trophies are given to the winner of each tournament. Skill, or number of games won, are not considered in making these awards.

Inter-sorority contests are slated for all sport activities including volleyball, basketball, baseball, golf, tennis, archery, badminton, deck tennis, and ping pong. At the end of the basketball season, the Psi Chi Phi's and Zeta Gamma Phi's were tied for first place. The Zeta's won the final game to be basketball champs. The Phi Chi's won the volleyball tournament.

The following are sorority point standings:

SORORITY	POSSIBLE POINTS	POINTS WON
Zeta Gamma Phi	1554	460
Psi Chi Phi	2005	400
Kappa Pi Epsilon	2442	300

In Retrospection

THE Women's Athletic Association has taken many steps forward since its beginning in 1921 to its present status in the arena. Instead of recognizing all the modern sports, basketball was the only official one. Christie Hiss was president of this first W. A. A.

Then, in 1922-23, a new idea was introduced. The Point System was adopted and through it membership was limited to those girls having 100 points. Tennis, hiking and baseball gained recognition in this year that Dorothy Meyer was president. The two most outstanding activities of the year were inter-collegiate games with Detroit Junior College and Bluffton.

Passing on to 1923 we find that Marian Ernsberger, our present W. A. A. adviser, was elected president of a more active W. A. A. This year hockey, volleyball, swimming and pistol shooting were added by Miss Norma Bird, the new Director of Physical Education.

The next year finds W. A. A. admitted to the Athletic Conference of American College Women. This accomplishment raised the status of our university to that of other leading schools in the country. Another sport, horseback riding, was added. Doris Fenneberg was president this year, 1924.

In 1925, the various sports were well organized so a head of each was elected. This practice has continued. Mayme Batsel was elected president of W. A. A. for this term.

Another fall sport, soccer, was added in 1928 and an inter-class tournament was held. Nellie Severence was leader of W. A. A. for this year in which for the first time we find track and field events included in the calendar.

The new Physical Education Director, Marian Ernsberger, was appointed in 1927. It was during this period, when Marie Mikesell was president, that all sports had inter-class tournaments.

With Mary Henry, 1928-1929, pistol shooting became prominent, and intra-mural games were featured.

When Helene Cosgray was president, 1929-1930, W. A. A. had a very active year. Two delegates were sent to the A. C. A. C. W. Conference at Ann Arbor. Two minor sports, golf and archery, were introduced. In order to win a sweater now, a girl must earn 1500 points.

Many changes occurred when Josephine Hauman became president, 1930-1931. W. A. A. members must now carry 12 hours of "C" work and have no outstanding conditions or failures. All W. A. A. points were kept from any girl representing any association in athletic competition, for this is against the principle of "sport for sport's sake."

In 1931-32, under the presidency of Dorothy Miller, a new sport, speedball, was introduced. Rounseville came for a week to teach archery technique to all women students interested. Ping pong was also introduced.

With Jane Kamke as leader, 1932-1933, W. A. A. had a full calendar. Badminton and deck tennis became two popular sports. An Inter-Sorority Athletic Program was planned with five sororities represented. During this year provision was made for individual and sorority credit in W. A. A.

Next year W. A. A. looks forward to still greater accomplishments, for it is an organization that believes only in progress.

THE Pan-Hellenic Council is an organization made up of members representing the various fraternities on the campus.

Its purposes are: to promote the interests of the University of Toledo and of the several fraternities represented therein; to insure cooperation among said fraternities, between them and the University authorities, and to the end that the conditions and their relations with the college may be improved.

THIS organization has been in existence for about eight years. Its purposes are to cooperate with the University authorities and other organizations in matters of general interest, and to regulate matters of inter-sorority interest. A new plan of organization has been in effect for this last year, introducing several new ideas and usages. The group is aware, however, that there is still more to be done to make the council more unified and lasting, that there is room for even more effective work than has been accomplished this year. They believe that it is necessary to have harmonic, voluntary effort and cooperation among all sorority members if they are to offer any good to the life of the University.

Dean Easley is the adviser of this council, which is composed of two members from each sorority. There are eight sororities represented now and the offices in the council are rotated each year, according to a fixed plan. The advisers of all sororities form an advisory group and the eight presidents of sororities may attend and take part in all meetings.

Kappa Pi Epsilon

IT is the purpose of the Kappa Pi Epsilon Sorority to encourage intelligent social activities and to take an active part in University projects.

This year the sorority on the occasion of its twentieth anniversary presented the University with two plaques cast in plastic ornament and finished in old English wood work. These plaques, one bearing the seal of the University of Toledo, and the other that of Toledo, Spain, are in honor of the late Dr. Henry J. Doermann.

Social activities included: a Christmas Formal at the Woman's Building; a Founders' Day Tea in the home of Mrs. Blake-more Godwin, patroness; an Anniversary Banquet at the Commodore Perry Hotel; a Mothers' Day Dinner, and a Spring Formal.

Phi Theta Psi

PHI THETA PSI sorority was organized in 1920 to render service for the promotion of human values, to promote the search for truth and to manifest cooperation in furtherance of the spirit of the university. It has aimed at ideals of higher scholarship and all things which will promote a better social feeling. Besides the active chapter there has been formed an alumni chapter which is known as the Beta chapter of Phi Theta Psi.

Activities of the year have included regular meetings in University Hall, many delightful social events, and other activities which have included informal social gatherings in the homes of the members.

It has pleased the sorority immensely to be able to announce Mrs. Richard Gillham as patroness of Phi Theta Psi.

Psi Chi Phi

THE Psi Chi Phi sorority was organized in 1923 with the purpose of encouraging a fine spirit of friendship among its members, of maintaining a high standard of scholarship and of promoting an interest in the University of Toledo and its various activities. There were just ten girls that first year. Miss Mary Galt was their adviser. They chose as the sorority colors crimson and black, and the poppy as the flower.

The sorority has grown greatly during its ten years of existence and has taken its place among the other prominent university organizations. The members through participation in the activities of the university and in their own sorority functions try to develop the executive, scholarly, athletic, and social sides of their lives. They receive active support and very worth while cooperation from their adviser, Mrs. J. M. Condrin, and their patronesses, Mrs. Henry Kreider and Miss C. Louise Gates.

This sorority holds the school volleyball championship and also heads the sorority and fraternity scholarship list.

The activities of the sorority this year have included an extensive charity program, formal and informal dances, teas celebrating Founders' Day, Mother's Day, and for the Faculty Dames, a slumber party, roasts, and a spring bridge party.

The members of Psi Chi Phi are looking forward to many more successful years in university activities.

Throughout the year the members have enjoyed many social affairs, some of which were the Christmas Formal, a dance honoring the pledges, a Founders' Day Banquet, and the Spring Formal.

Alpha Tau Sigma

ALPHA TAU SIGMA has been able to fulfill its purpose of bringing its members together in social harmony and friendship through the help and guidance of Dean Katherine Easley, Miss Ruby T. Scott, and the patronesses, Mrs. Dorman Richardson, Mrs. Frank Parmalee, Mrs. George F. Evans, and Mrs. Nicholas Mogen-dorff.

Mrs. Dorothy Vandenbroek Smith, the first adviser to the group, is now an honorary member of the sorority.

The annual activities of the group are the Christmas party, a charity project during the holiday period, the Founders' Day Banquet on Twelfthnight, January 6th, the Mother's Day Tea, and the formal Senior Banquet after graduation.

This year's activities have also included spreads and suppers, two bridges, a dance, and a tea for the officers of the other sororities and of the Faculty Dames.

Tau Delta Sigma

TAU DELTA SIGMA became a recognized sorority on the University campus after having been founded in 1924 as a local branch of a national social sorority. The purpose of the sorority is to further the bonds of friendship among University women through social contact. The aims are to maintain a high standard of scholarship and to promote University functions. The sorority participates in University athletics, sponsors the sorority string ensemble and other musical activities, and promotes numerous social affairs in the form of teas, parties and dances. The program for the near future is comprised of a series of Sunday night suppers at the sorority apartment; an informal party for alumni members, a pledge dance, a week-end party in Cleveland, a Mothers' Day tea, Senior banquet and formal spring dance.

Sigma Delta Rho

SIGMA DELTA RHO is the only national social fraternity on the campus. It was organized in 1921 as the Zeta Omicron fraternity, and in May, 1924, was affiliated with Sigma Delta Rho as the Gamma Chapter. In 1931, the fraternity was admitted to the Inter-Fraternity Council, an organization composed of the leading national fraternities.

The chapter members are leaders in campus activities, serving on committees and in the Student Council, and taking part in football, basketball, debating and track, and of other major and minor activities. The chapter has its quarters on the third floor of Berkeley Manor, where many of the social gatherings and meetings are held.

Chi Beta Chi

THE primary purpose of Chi Beta Chi is to inculcate in the minds of its members the highest ideals of character, brotherhood, and culture.

Rather than attempting to bring together a highly specialized group of men, the Brotherhood prefers to develop and broaden the interests of each, feeling that in the final analysis this brings the greater good.

Chi Beta Chi has enjoyed perhaps its most successful year since its founding, being especially fortunate in having a fine pledge class of 21 men. Besides winning its share of the interfraternity competition, the Annual Christmas Formal Dinner Dance, held December 23, at the Heatherdowns Country Club, was one of the outstandingly brilliant social events of the year. The social season, interspersed with many pleasant informal affairs, was concluded with the Annual Sport Formal Dinner Dance, honoring the graduates in the Fraternity.

Among the numerous social events of the year were the eleventh annual Christmas Formal Dance which was held at the Maumee River Yacht Club on December 27th, featuring Ray Humphrey's Orchestra; Founders' Week, January 29th to February 3rd, celebrating the eleventh anniversary, including the Founders' Ball; the Pledge Banquet, as well as Alumni Night and Fathers' Night. Lambda Chi

EIGHT years ago a new fraternity known as Lambda Chi made its appearance on the campus with the purpose of promoting good fellowship and high scholarship.

Under the guidance of its faculty adviser, Dr. Frank E. Nurse, Lambda Chi, since its beginning in 1925, has been successful and prosperous, and at present is one of the very active fraternities on the campus.

The social affairs of the year reached their height with the annual spring dance on March 24, and the Founders' Day banquet on May 6.

Kappa Psi

KAPPA PSI is an international pharmaceutical fraternity. Chapters are strictly limited to recognized schools of pharmacy. There are now 49 collegiate chapters and 32 graduate chapters, almost all of the colleges of pharmacy in North America having a chapter. It is governed by a Grand Council.

Its purposes are to conduct a mutual fraternal organization; to unite in fellowship persons of good character and sound mental health; to further the advantages of its members intellectually, morally, and socially; to create the feeling of the great responsibility of the pharmacist to the public as well as to the members of the medical profession; and to foster pharmaceutical research and high scholarship.

The Beta Lambda Chapter of Kappa Psi was founded in 1925. It has existed since then with only a few active members each year but the total membership now exceeds 90. The alumni members organized last year and formed the Toledo Graduate Chapter of Kappa Psi.

The Kappa Psi fraternity is not primarily a social organization, but a professional fraternity. It is not as well known on the campus as some of the other fraternities because its members are not athletically inclined. The Regent, Harold Korte, is the president of the Pan-Hellenic Council. The social activities consist principally of dances and card parties, of which the Christmas dance and Spring formal are the outstanding.

Phi Kappa Chi

PHI Kappa Chi fraternity was founded in October of 1915 to promote interest in the university campus life and to engender a fraternal spirit in the student body. It was then known as the Crescent fraternity. Dr. Howard H. M. Bowman was elected advisor. In 1920 a new name, Phi Kappa Chi, was chosen by the fraternity.

During the school year of 1932-33, the active chapter of Phi Kappa Chi sponsored various social events including: the annual Stag Banquet for the members of both the active and alumni chapters on April 22nd; the annual picnic at Devil's Lake; the rushing program September 12th to 25th; the Christmas dance December 27th, and the Spring formal on May 27th. The social program was completed by various chapter dances and social gatherings of the fraternity members.

Alpha Phi Omega

THE purpose of Alpha Phi Omega is to create and promote fellowship, athletics, and scholarship, and to encourage college activities. Its aim is to advance the social, intellectual, and moral welfare of its brothers.

The social activities of Alpha Phi Omega began with a picnic at Clarke's Lake, and its success was to foretell the success of the events which followed. Founders' Day was celebrated with a banquet and a smoker. Several informal dances were given throughout the year, one of the most enjoyed being the one given by the Pledges in honor of the active chapter. The calendar for the first semester culminated with the Christmas Formal, given this year at Heather Downs Country Club. Having enjoyed the monthly dances thus far in the second semester, the members of Alpha Phi Omega are looking forward with eager anticipation to the Spring Formal, for which event the energetic social committee is making complete plans.

Alpha Phi Omega is proud of its athletic success this year, as well as its success along other lines.

To Professor Donald S. Parks, the fraternity expresses its appreciation. Without his efforts, the year could not have been such a success.

Sigma Beta Phi

SIGMA BETA PHI fraternity was founded on February 21, 1918. In its fifteen years of existence the fraternity has pledged itself to the advancement of a greater university, a greater spirit of fellowship, a higher standard of scholarship, and the development of higher character.

In order to create a better feeling of fellowship among all fraternities on the University campus, Sigma Beta Phi this year has sponsored several House parties to which all fraternities were guests. We hope that in the future this plan may be continued by all organizations.

As in previous years, the active chapter as well as the pledge group has upheld the tradition of the founders and have been leaders in campus activities.

Kappa Phi Sigma

THE charter members of Kappa Phi Sigma worked on the plans and constitution for the organization all during the summer of 1932, and received the approval of the faculty shortly after school began for the year 1932-1933. The purpose of the fraternity is to promote Brotherhood, Honor, and Scholarship among the pre-medical students of the University. It is also our hope to promote further interest in medicine by securing leading physicians and surgeons as speakers for our meetings.

Kappa Phi Sigma is deeply grateful to Dr. H. H. M. Bowman, for without his kind cooperation and invaluable aid we would not have obtained such a fine start toward our goal.

Members of the Varsity "T" Club are recruited from the men in residence at the University who have won for themselves the Varsity "T" award. Its purpose is to promote higher athletic standards and ideals in all University sports, and to further better relations between the athletic department and the student body.

This year's activities have been marked by many novel features. The club decided on and obtained keys for its official insignia, instead of the usual pins, thereby becoming the first local organization on the campus to take such a step. Smokers with the Alumni Varsity "T" Club; a barbeque roast for graduating high school athletes; installation of a traditional Letter Day, in which each Varsity man wears his letter on the day of meetings; securing of the Social rooms above the athletic department offices for a regular meeting and club room; assisting in the successful conduct of the annual indoor track meet for High Schools of the state; and work for preserving records left at the old Nebraska Avenue building, have constituted some of the attempted and completed projects.

With an active year's existence behind it, there seems no good reason why the Varsity Club should not go on, to become one of the greatest and most influential groups in the University.

Blockhouse of 1933

The Blockhouse of 1933 is not only a record of the changing of people in the University and of the year's activities but it is also proof that this publication has come to be an important institution for the preservation of the spirit, friendships and memories of this growing organization of men and women.

Throughout the year the staff has been tirelessly aided by Germán Erausquin, of the DeVilbiss Company, who has carefully developed with the staff the plan of the book. To him must go the credit for the history of Toledo, Spain, and the layout of the opening pages which carry out the theme of the comparison of Toledo, Ohio, and Toledo, Spain.

The Toledo Chamber of Commerce, Mr. L. W. Platt, photographer, and the Toledo Museum of Art Camera Club furnished the pictures with which we were able to carry out the theme. Much credit is due to these people and to Mr. Earl Cuthbertson, who was the art director of the staff, for their efforts to make this book a success.

Campus Collegian

THE Campus Collegian is the weekly student publication of the University of Toledo. For the last two years it has been judged the best weekly college newspaper in Ohio. This year it was host to the Ohio College Newspaper Association which convened here December 2 and 3.

All students interested in journalism or newspaper work are eligible as reporters. Journalism students are required to contribute to the Collegian as a part of their work in the course.

The Campus Collegian stands for unbiased treatment of facts, recognition of ability regardless of fraternal or non-fraternal affiliations, a university standard of news and a more democratic school spirit.

Peppers is the only honorary woman's organization on the campus. Its purpose is to foster participation in activities, high scholastic standing, and campus sociability.

There are fifteen members this year. In order to be eligible for membership, a woman must be active in at least two activities and have a 1.5 average in grades. She must be a representative woman and a leader on the campus.

The group has held several informal meetings this year and has tried to become better acquainted with the other members by learning of their outside work which consists of social work, scout work, and community welfare work.

THE University League of Women Voters was organized in 1926 under the guidance of Dean Katherine Easley. Since that time she has acted as faculty adviser to the organization. The general objective of the League has been to educate university women for better citizenship.

The most interesting activity of the organization so far this year has been its participation in the Student Industrial Conferences. The aim of these conferences is to discuss the industrial situation today and what the college student can do about it. It is the aim of the League to arouse interest in social legislation which will better the country in which we live.

DURING the first year of its active existence, the Business Administration Club has made considerable progress. At its business meetings, speakers including Professor Donald S. Parks, Miss Anne Fineman, personnel director of Lasalle & Koch's; and Professor Delos M. Palmer of the Engineering Club have given very interesting and educational talks. Several fine social meetings have been enjoyed in the Conference Room.

But the greatest contribution made by the Club to not only the school, but also the whole community, has been the editing and publishing by certain of its members of a monthly bulletin entitled "The Toledo Business Review." This bulletin has organized and compared the latest statistics on business conditions in its various phases in Toledo, showing comparisons with the previous month, the same month a year ago, and with national figures in the same field of business. The publication has been under the direction of Dr. George L. Leffler, and the student staff has been composed of George L. Young, editor; Calvin Lieberman, business manager; and Carleton Vobbe, assistant editor. Students in the Club have served as reporters, secretaries, and compilers of statistics.

El Centro Espanol

EL CENTRO ESPANOL was organized in 1922 to create an active interest in Spanish and to help students to practice speaking that language. The meetings of the club are held the last Sunday of every month in the home of some member, and there is always a guest speaker.

Any student having passed one university year of Spanish is eligible for membership. At the end of each school year the club holds a banquet at which time the officers for the coming year are installed.

University Debating Association

THE SEASON

OHIO CONFERENCE—Question: "Resolved that the State of Ohio Should Enact Legislation Providing for the Compulsory Arbitration of All Labor Disputes." For the second successive season University debate teams came out on top in the Conference, having registered one more victory this year than its nearest competitor, Ohio, and scoring victories over strong conference teams such as Wittenburg, Muskingum, Ohio, and Kent State. These were all formal debates, judged by experts picked by the Conference moderator.

PI KAPPA DELTA DEBATES—Question: "Resolved that the United States Should Agree to the Cancellation of All Interallied War Debts." The Tournament at Tiffin saw a team composed of Gluck and Appel come through four debates without defeat and participate in the Audience Debate at night. All teams participating upheld both sides of the question. Other debates of the season on War Debts were as follows: Victories over Baldwin-Wallace (Wernert School), Bucknell (at DeVilbiss), Pittsburgh (at Gibsonburg); non-decision debates against Heidelberg (Convocation), and Penn (Theatre).

MANCHESTER DEBATES—Question: "Resolved that the Federal Government Should Regulate All Banking Functions, With Deposits Guaranteed." A team composed of Chamberlain, Carsten and Dailey won four out of five debates against Purdue, Manchester, Wheaton and others, at the two-day Manchester Tournament. A non-varsity team of Vobbe, Baumgartner and Uthoff also participated.

BOWLING GREEN TOURNAMENT—Women's debates and the final tournament of the year were cancelled because of the impounding of funds in the First National Bank. However, a team composed of Virginia Leflet and Clara Kuhn participated in a Tournament at Bowling Green on "State Policing," winning two out of three contests. Murlyn Cameron and Clara Kuhn debated against Bowling Green in a pre-season contest. Non-varsity participants were Rose Leibowitz and Roberta Emmet.

SEASON SUMMARY—The University won eighteen debates, lost three and had three non-decision debates, besides the non-decision debates of practice tournaments. The total number of participants in this year's contests was twenty-one.

Dramatic Association

THE DRAMATIC ASSOCIATION is the organization for the study and production of amateur theatricals. Several plays are presented each year in the Henry J. Doermann Theatre, the casts of which are chosen at scheduled tryouts by the director with the approval of the faculty adviser. Any full-time student is eligible to try out for a part in a play or in the production staff, whether or not he is yet a member.

The Dramatic Association is divided into three major departments, namely: Acting, Production and Business. The Acting Department, of course, speaks for itself; the Production Department, under the supervision of the Vice-President, consists in Stage Managing, Sets, Costumes, Properties, and anything else that might be included in the actual production of the play; and the Business Department, headed by the Treasurer, had charge of the tickets, publicity, etc.

Membership in the Dramatic Association is gained through active participation in at least one play each year, in one of the three departments. Application for membership is made to the secretary of the organization, stating in which department the applicant is most interested, and listing any previous experience.

During the year 1932-33, three major productions and several one-acts were presented. The first, "The Pigeon," by John Galsworthy, was directed by C. Gibson Barlow, and was presented December 1 and 2. The mid-year production, "Death Takes a Holiday," by Walter Ferris, also directed by Mr. Barlow, was presented February 16 and 17. The final major production, "The Importance of Being Earnest," by Oscar Wilde, which was presented May 4 and 5, was directed by L. D. Barnhart, who became director upon the resignation of Mr. Barlow.

The two one-act plays presented during the year were both directed by students. "A Cup of Tea," by Ryerson, was under the direction of Phyllis Heinle, and Yeats' "Hour Glass," under that of Arthur Gould.

THE University Orchestra was first recognized as a student activity in the year 1930-31. With the whole-hearted cooperation of the late Dr. Henry J. Doermann, it has made definite progress. In addition to its own program, the orchestra has aided the Dramatic Association and the Chorus in their productions. The Orchestra hopes to build up an organization which will be able to carry out a program worthy of the University.

During the year, the Orchestra, under the competent and able direction of Mr. Walter Willinganz, has played for several convocations, presented a Christmas program, assisted the Chorus in the "Two Vagabonds," gave a concert at the Toledo Museum of Art, and helped with the May Day activities. The Orchestra concluded its season by playing for the Commencement exercises.

THE UNIVERSITY CHORUS this year has been working especially on A Capella singing, using classics of the seventeenth century. This is a very difficult type of music, quite effective if well done, and only a few organizations, even among college groups, have undertaken it. The chorus fills a need for such music in Toledo. The group sang on April 2 at the First Congregational Church and later appeared at the Museum of Art. In February the chorus presented the comic opera, "The Two Vagabonds," in addition to its regular work, but its main efforts have been directed toward music of a different kind. The chorus also assisted with the Baccalaureate service and with Commencement.

THE Women's Association is the organization of which all women students become members upon matriculating in the University.

The purpose of the organization is to establish a central point of contact among women students and is the only women's organization on the campus without distinction as to classes, types of courses, or honor attainments. The officers are chosen in the spring at a general election in which all women students are eligible.

The Women's Association sponsors several social affairs each year, including a tea for Freshmen women, a bridge for all women, and May Day.

The May Day celebration is an elaborate annual affair held under their auspices and is featured by the coronation of the new Women's Association president as May Queen.

THE Ellen H. Richards Club of the University completed this year the fullest schedule in the history of domestic science activities at this institution. Interests furthered in the current year included the sewing of dresses for the Red Cross, experiments in diets and food for the City Welfare Department in relief work, a fruit cake sale, and charity work at Thanksgiving and Christmas.

"The Development of Personality" by various means has been the theme of the social meetings. Speakers well known in their fields have led the discussions on the development and training of personality.

Social activities have included the Freshmen Tea, the Hallowe'en Party, the Annual Spring Dance, the Style Show and Mothers' Tea, and the Senior Farewell.

THE University of Toledo Engineering Society is a new organization on the campus this year. The society was organized for the purpose of promoting friendship and developing greater knowledge and interest in engineering enterprises among the junior and senior engineering students.

During the past year technical papers have been prepared and presented by members at the regular meetings held at University Hall. Inspection trips through various factories have also been made by the group.

THE purpose of the Le Cercle Français is to promote facility of expression in French. At each meeting the business and program of the club are conducted in French. An attempt is made to provide a social setting for French conversation—an atmosphere almost impossible to attain in the formal class room.

The association has been fortunate in having as its guests M. Jean Berniot, M. Jules Mallien, and M. Jean Hérand, whose speech has been a good example for American students to copy.

The following plays have been presented by Le Cercle Français this year: "Le Medicin Mystifié," by Victor E. François, and "Les Romanesques," by Edmond Rostand.
